

The opportunities and challenges in building an integrated care environment

Wednesday 25th July 2018

10am – 4pm, River Room, Pinnacle MHN

711 Victoria Street, Hamilton

Keynote Speaker: Dr Robin Miller, Deputy Director, Health Services Management Centre, University of Birmingham, UK and Joint Editor in Chief of the International Journal of Integrated Care and Co-Editor of the Journal of Integrated Care

- Why do many integrated care programmes fail to deliver?
- What can we learn from other areas around the globe?
- Why don't patients talk about 'integrated care'?
- What does this mean for better integration between general practice and community services
- Do we know what better looks like?

'More integrated care is hard to disagree with in principle but the reality on the ground is often different with few pilot projects leading to long term improvements in practice.'

This session will draw on research and practice experience to challenge assumptions about what works and why, and so increase the chance of actual impacts being achieved'

Robin Miler

Case Study: The Taupo Integrated Care Model

Hear how HCH practices and the extended care team are improving outcomes, collaborating efficiently and developing integrated service models such as peer group consultations

Come and join in a lively debate on how we make sure we don't fail in our local systems
